FROM THE CHAIR

As my tenure as Chair of the Authority ends, I would like to thank the Board Members, Investors, Staff and a highly supportive County Government, led by Ken Ulman, and County Council who have supported the Economic Development Authority with their time, money and talent. We all worked together with a common goal of promoting economic development for the citizens of Howard County. We accomplished much over my two year term with a strategic plan written and being implemented, created a Catalyst Loan Program, started a new funding base, and helped provide valuable information to our elected leaders and public for deciding on a downtown Columbia redevelopment plan. We also managed the transition to a new CEO, Laura Neuman with the retirement of our long time, world class CEO, Dick Story.

I am pleased that the Authority has an outstanding person to be the new Chair, Cathy Ward of Corporate Office Properties Trust. She has the intelligence, passion, talent and personality to lead the Board to continue building Howard County as a premier place for companies to grow and prosper.

I am proud of the work we have accomplished and I look forward to the accomplishments yet to come as the organization continues to grow the economic base of Howard County.

Peter J. Rogers, Jr., Chair 2009-2011, Howard County Economic Development Authority

FROM COUNTY EXECUTIVE ULMAN

The true test of leadership comes during times of adversity. As the nation and our region emerge from an economic depression, we are demonstrating that Howard County leads the way in innovation and intellectual capital.

From building a broadband infrastructure that will serve as the information highway for a new generation of businesses, to embracing the opportunities created by BRAC, the U.S. Cyber Command, healthcare and biotechnology, Howard County is combining public-sector resources and private-sector ingenuity to stay ahead of the competition.

We're working to make our already vibrant Economic Development Authority even better. I am excited about the vision and energy of new CEO Laura Neuman. She, like you, is a business leader committed to making Howard County the best it possibly can be. Laura is building on past successes and creating new programs to grow a business-friendly environment for the future. A strong business base is essential for maintaining our nationally recognized schools, libraries and recreational programs. And those qualities, in turn, entice businesses to grow and relocate here.

I would like to thank the Board members and volunteers who give their time to the organization. Howard County's partnership with the Economic Development Authority is a model that brings together the best of government and the private sector to create an alliance that ensures our continued vitality.

Ken Ulman, County Executive

FROM THE CEO

The first week I joined the Authority in April 2011, I had the pleasure of cutting the ribbon at Ancile Solutions — a high-tech business new to the county — and each week since has been as exciting as the first.

As I look at the economic development opportunities of Howard County, I am energized by the chance to apply my private-sector background to capitalize on the current assets in the county. I look forward to building an environment that promotes entrepreneurship and business development to grow and attract more companies like Ancile.

This community has so much to offer, and benefits by having dedicated professionals willing to contribute to its success. I truly appreciate the warm welcome I have received by the Board and business community. My vision is to build the Authority so it is driven by results and is relentless in its pursuit of providing excellent customer service. I believe that by adding value and building our reputation, we will foster a friendly business climate and ensure that Howard County will continue to prosper.

Laura Neuman, Chief Executive Officer

Farewell to a Friend: Dick Story moves on

Richard Story has been a leading force behind economic development in Maryland for more than 34 years; he spent 18 of those years building the Howard County Economic Development Authority as Chief Executive Officer. He had many accomplishments and successes and we appreciate all he did for the local economy and wish him all the best in his new endeavors.

HOWARD COUNTY AGRICULTURE: Connecting through Partnership

Working in Partnership with state and local agencies, the Authority's Agricultural Marketing Program provides assistance in promoting products, diversifying activities, and expanding markets for agri-business within Howard County. In Fiscal Year 2011, the program partnered to produce:

Farm and Services Directory:

Outreach to the community and providing the agriculture industry the opportunity to promote their farming enterprises and commodities is a goal of the Agricultural Marketing Program. The new Farm and Services Directory brings the community the ability to easily find those farms that are direct marketing their products and commodities.

Central Maryland Women in Agriculture:

With a growing number of women becoming owners and managers of agricultural enterprises the need to educate those women on business planning, financing and marketing has grown as well. By providing the tools and opportunities for women to grow and develop their niche markets, the agriculture industry continues to grow.

Film Festival: In partnership with Howard County Office of Tourism and Promotion, the University of Maryland Extension and Clark's Elioak Farm, the Agriculture Marketing Program of Howard County Economic Development Authority developed the first "Film Festival." The "Film Festival" is a kick-off event for the Howard County Farm2Table Restaurant Weeks and the Buy Local Challenge. It included a Howard County only Farmers' Market, tastings from local restaurants participating in Restaurant Weeks and the film "Ingredients" which highlights the local food movement.

THE CENTER FOR BUSINESS AND TECHNOLOGY DEVELOPMENT:

Connecting to Howard County's Innovative, Knowledge-Based Community

Governor Martin O'Malley speaks at Gantech ribbon cutting ceremony.

During Fiscal Year 2011, The Center for Business and Technology Development was active and growth oriented, offering an array of practical services and support as a one-stop resource for Howard County's small business owners and entrepreneurs through its three components: The Business Resource Center, the NeoTech Incubator, and the Howard Technology Council.

Howard Technology Council:

The Howard Technology Council enjoyed tremendous success under the leadership of Executive Director Larry Collins and Advisory Committee Chair Mary Beth Tung. The Third Annual Technology Awards program was held at Howard Community College. The keynote speaker – John Jacobs, of the NASDAQ/OMX - focused on specialized innovation occurring in the business sectors. Businesses are focusing on what they do best and outsourcing other tasks. At a follow up event the Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO) presented the importance of technology transfer and why it is key to this region.

The Council exceeded the financial goals by 32% and produced 18 events throughout the year, serving more than 700 individuals.

Connecting to Small Businesses

NeoTech Incubator: Currently, the NeoTech Incubator is hosting 30 clients. Nine new companies joined the incubator in 2011:

- Zavda Technologies
- Fixmo
- Belay Technologies
- Fantail Consulting & Technologies
- TargetGov
- Flash Technology Group
- Tower Resource Management
- Johnson-Brome Business Consulting
- ArcSource Group

During the fiscal year, five companies left NeoTech. Two graduated into nearby office space, Audacious Inquiry and Dresner Group and three others transitioned out of the program, Aaski, Palladium, and Systems Security Services.

This year $12,000 was granted to NeoTech for client business assistance. Thirteen companies took advantage of this funding program, leveraging state funding to further their business goals. The program was administered by NeoTech management.

Congratulations to Tenants:

SI Tec Consulting won the Maryland Incubation Association's Technology Services Company of the Year award at its annual awards program. In addition, two other NeoTech companies were selected as finalists this year, Emerald Sky Technologies and Group Z.

The Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO) announced that one of its portfolio companies, Seguro Surgical™, Inc., had taken its medical device to commercialization in record time. Seguro achieved this milestone within four months of receiving a Maryland Technology Transfer and Commercialization Fund ("MTTCF") grant. The Kauffman Foundation announced that Seguro Surgical was recognized as one of the top ten newly launched companies in the United States during its Startup Open Competition during Global Entrepreneurship Week.

Business Resource Center: The Business Resource Center served 852 individuals through its training and counseling programs this year with an exactly equal number of men and women. We continued to strengthen partner relationships with SCORE and the Small Business Development Center. The Authority's 17th Annual Business Recognition Program and Breakfast Gala featured Dr. David A. Anderson as the keynote speaker. He is a nationally syndicated radio talk show host, Founder and President of the Bridge Leader Network, and Founder and Senior Pastor of Bridgeway Community Church.

The Small Business Development Center counseled 127, trained 49 and distributed information to 146 Howard County Businesses.
